The Methodist Church

Why does design and branding matter?

Every church has a brand. This is because a “brand” is the way in which the wider community perceives something: it’s not just having a church logo or website. A church brand is not what you think about your church, but how everyone on the outside sees it.

Some feel unsure of branding due to the association with marketing in the business world. But it is not just for swaying people into buying something. Branding is simply telling your church’s story in a way that demonstrates who you are and what your vision is.

Research shows someone must see a brand SEVEN times before they act. Branding that’s consistent and eye-catching will help potential visitors recognise your church and be more willing to check it out.

If you want to advertise your church event, whether it’s a service, toddler group, course, or concert, it’s important that promotional materials are eye catching and engaging.

If you don’t have the budget for a professional graphic designer or have an experienced member of the congregation, you’re often left with a volunteer designing in software not meant for design, such as Microsoft Word. Generally, this means that the potential of what you can create will be limited. But there are some tips that will help.

Good graphic design can help form a positive first impression that draws people in. It can also have an ongoing impact on how people relate to your church. It gives us credibility and adds to our reputation. It can impact the quality of our worship, how many people turn up to our events, and whether younger generations see the church as relevant to their lives.

Our churches, leaders and volunteers are stretched thinly, either having too much to do, or not having the right skills for the job. This can, in some cases, lead to poor standards in the publicity we produce – whether we’re aware of it or not.

Publicity is usually produced with the best intentions, and we don’t want to downplay this. But if we’re able to improve our output with some easily implemented steps, we should be seeking to do so!

The following tips in this document are written to give you some helpful design pointers for those tasked with creating your church flyers, banners, slideshows, notice sheets, newsletters, webpages, social media content, and other digital assets.

RECOMMENDED METHODIST COLOURS

Methodist Guidance

Methodist Red, the traditional colour of Pentecost, may be taken to symbolise the Methodist conviction that through the power of the Holy Spirit, all humanity may be saved. For this reason, The Methodist Red should appear on every piece of communication wherever possible. The secondary palette provides colours that give creative flexibility and work well with Methodist red. Read more on the Methodist Website here

Why should you use these colours?

As said in the intro, consistency is key in branding – people become familiar with your look and positively associate it with your church. This is most easily achieved using colours. If each poster, graphic, PowerPoint has a different colour palette it can be jarring and confusing. So, even if you don't use these specific colours, it's important to consistently use your own colours.

These colours, however, are already associated with the Methodist brand nationally, and so by using them you will more easily identify as a Methodist Church to those outside. Limiting your choice of colours also often helps non-professionals create better designs.

You don't need to use all of these – in fact it's best to stick to just 2 or 3 colours total
(a red and one secondary colour, plus black & white, can go a long way!)

EXAMPLE

Examples used in this document are not meant to be seen as “good” and “bad”, or to name and shame, but are provided as a learning opportunity. The “more effective” examples should not be considered “perfect” – and we must remember art is subjective!

LESS EFFECTIVE

Over 10 different colours are used in this design which limits the visual appeal

Over 5 different fonts are used. Simplifying the colours and fonts would improve the cohesiveness and effectiveness of this design

The dense use of text and lack of space makes this poster hard to read and not very accessible

MORE EFFECTIVE

Designs using only the Methodist colour palette can still look exciting, professional, and creative.

Lots of ‘blank space’ improves the design. Only include key information – less is more!

But the angel said to them,
“Do not be afraid; for see –
I am bringing you good news of great joy for all the people...”

Luke 2:10 (NRSV)

Methodist Guidance

The Methodist Church font is currently the Franklin Gothic family (possibly changing). It is used across the whole brand – from display size to body copy. It is a common font available in most packages by default. Read more on the Methodist Website here

Why should you use these fonts?

Part of being consistent in your branding is using set fonts. If each poster, graphic, PowerPoint has different fonts it can be jarring and confusing. So, even if you don't use these specific fonts, it's important to consistently use a selected font family.

These fonts, however, are already associated with the Methodist brand. Limiting your choice of fonts also often helps non-professionals create better designs.

Fonts can really make or break a design – creative use of complimentary fonts can be good, but if you're not sure, it's best to stick with these recommendations.

To look professional, try to avoid these dated fonts that are common in less effective designs: Comic Sans, Papyrus, Arial, Times New Roman, Helvetica, Impact, Courier New, Trajan, Kristen ITC, Bradley Hand.

CHURCH SERVICE

10.00 am - at Example Methodist Church
(entrance to the field for cars and pedestrians will be directed through the main Abbey car park)

Preacher: Example Person

Followed by Refreshments - you're invited to bring a picnic to share together.
Everyone Welcome - come and join us!

This service is arranged by EXAMPLE METHODIST CHURCH
(wet weather plan will be to move inside the church)

Avoid underlining text or including overused fonts like Comic Sans or Papyrus

Unless printing at home, it's best to have a background (a colour, photo, or graphic) to aid visual appeal

Over 5 different fonts are used. Simplifying the fonts would improve the cohesiveness and effectiveness of this design

This design only uses 1 font, but utilises bold, UPPERCASE and expanded typefaces to add variety without being distracting

It's more effective to integrate images into your design than have them stand alone

USING METHODIST LOGOS

The Methodist Church

Yorkshire
North & East
Methodist District

The Methodist Church

Methodist Guidance

The Methodist Church logo is an integral part of the brand, and therefore our identity. It is made up of our name and the Orb and Cross. It is used on all materials as part of the body of work of the Methodist Church in Britain. It can appear as red on a white background or the reverse. The logo should not be recreated, distorted, or appear in other colours. Read more on the Methodist Website here

General Advice

Logos are a great brand tool as they are quickly identifiable and we'd encourage every church to have a logo, even if it's just the church name in a certain font. Place your logo, and the Methodist logo or orb (if it's not part of your own logo), on all your communication and publicity. District and Circuit logos can be used where appropriate.

Whilst the Methodist logo should be used on a white background where possible, it's best to use a transparent logo on other backgrounds – don't do this:

TIP #1 USE THE RIGHT SOFTWARE

To start designing, you'll need a design tool/program.

Unless you're creating something to be quickly printed at home, it's unlikely that Microsoft Word or other word processing applications are going to be suitable. They will limit the effectiveness of what can be produced, and are less able to create graphics, content for sharing online, or content for professional printing.

For those with a budget and someone with existing skills (or willing to learn), then the best option is Adobe Creative Cloud. This gives access to professional software like Photoshop, InDesign and Illustrator. Adobe provides a non-profit discount, so if your church is a registered charity, you may be able to apply.

However, there are many great free options, included the highly recommend Canva which is great for beginners and experts alike. It offers free templates and simple to use interfaces all through the online editor. Just add your text to a free template and upload to your website or social media. You can design posters, documents, PowerPoints, and much more. Canva offers its premium version free to registered charities.

Canva is a free online simplified graphic-design tool, founded in 2012. It uses a drag-and-drop format and provides access to photographs, vector images, graphics, and fonts. It is used by non-designers as well as professionals. The tools can be used for both web and print media design and graphics.

Let your design breathe...

Make sure you leave negative space – this is the area of the layout that is left empty. Not only around the objects you place in the layout, but also between and inside them. Negative space creates a kind of breathing room for all the objects on the page or screen. You don't need to fill the design with text, images, and objects. Having a clean design can help get your message across.

Proper use of white space not only frees up the design from being overcrowded and cluttered, but also serves to draw the eye to the details that are most important.

Don't include every detail you can think of on your publicity! The more details you include, the more space this will take up or the more elements there will be to distract your audience from the message you want them to take away and act on.

TIP #3 INCLUDE HIGH QUALITY PHOTOS

Visual storytelling is incredibly important as people process images 60,000 times faster than words.

Therefore, it's crucial to take the best photos you can – but photos taken on a phone will often be more than good enough. If you have amateur, or even professional photographers in your midst, use them! But don't let a lack of these be an excuse.

Good photos are easy to come by in the age of camera phones: it's more a case of ensuring we remember to capture the right things. Keep your phone close and build up a church photo library for your publicity.

It is always great to take photos of your community yourself, but sometimes it may not be possible. So Unsplash, Pexels and Pixabay can come in handy as they offer royalty-free photos. However, stock photography will rarely, if ever, portray an accurate, honest and helpful picture of your church.

GENERAL TIPS

Save time with social media templates

There is no better way to save time, and improve quality, than to use pre-designed templates.

Consider the visual hierarchy

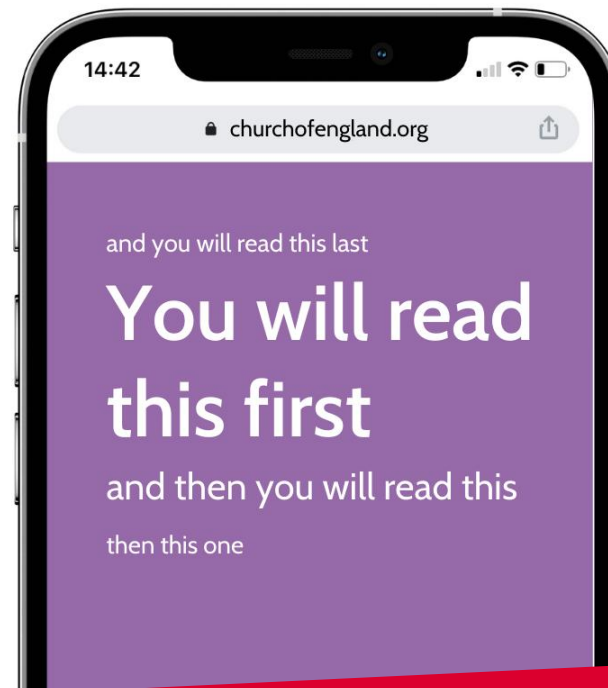

Visual hierarchy is all about giving importance to some elements over others. It's how headers are larger than subheadings, and these in turn are larger than a box of text. The same applies to images, graphics, icons and even colours. When you use visual hierarchy rules, you bring attention to a focal point in the design. This creates a visual balance that then starts a visual flow of information for the viewer.

Use cohesive design elements

When you add design element, they must have a cohesive style between them. This applies to all graphic elements: borders, boxes, lines, shapes, pictures, fonts, colours.

Optimize readability

Always make your text easy to read, being aware of contrast between text and backgrounds. Your text needs to be easy to read over a background image or texture. Do everything in your power to make the context of your design easy to understand.

Things to avoid:

- Too many fonts
- Too many colours
- Too much text
- Pixelated graphics or images
- Going too near the edge of the page or graphic
- Clipart or wordart
- Taking a picture of a physical poster for use online
- White background on social media
- To keep designs looking modern, we'd suggest avoiding text shadows, underlining text, curved text, or text borders

DESIGNING A CHURCH POSTER

Examples used in this document are not meant to be seen as “good” and “bad”, or to name and shame, but are provided as a learning opportunity. The “more effective” examples should not be considered “perfect” – and we must remember art is subjective!

How to make a poster

1 Get started on Canva

Open up Canva and search for “Poster” to start designing.

2 Choose a template

Find a poster for an open house, a business launch party, fundraiser, upcoming event, workshop or conference, art auction, grand opening, program announcement and more. Click on the template to start customizing.

3 Personalize your poster design

Begin with a template then play around with the design. Adjust the layout by rearranging the elements on the page, choosing a new color scheme or background, and experimenting with different fonts and color combinations.

This could be for your website, your church notice board, or outdoor display. But as with all graphic design, if you’re a beginner then the best and quickest way to create a church poster is to use a template. Canva has lots of free options and customisation options.

However, if you’re keen to start from scratch, then it’s often good to establish a background image, graphic, texture, or colour first. Then start laying up elements and text.

Otherwise, it’s a case of following the guidance on the previous pages of this document to create an attractive, accessible, and effective poster.

DESIGNING SOCIAL MEDIA GRAPHICS

How to make social media graphics

- 1 Open Canva
Open up Canva and search for “Social Media Graphics” to start designing.
- 2 Choose a template
Explore social media graphics for every industry and theme, including travel, sales, quotes, party, holiday and more. Find the perfect graphic for Twitter, Facebook, Instagram and other platforms. Click on your favorite to make it yours.
- 3 Explore features
Get creative with Canva’s library of professionally designed photos, images, illustrations, icons, speech bubbles, shapes and other elements. Apply filters with the photo effects feature and create movement with the animate feature.
- 4 Customize your design
Make your social media graphic unique by uploading your own images and artwork, adding video or audio and choosing your own background and color scheme. Customize until it feels finished.
- 5 Save and share
Download your designs as JPGs, PNGs or GIFs. Upload directly to your social media accounts from Canva using the “Share” option.

Open a New Social Media Design

To all intents and purposes, designing social media graphics is the same process as designing a church poster – see page above.

The main differences with social media are purpose (you should be looking to engage rather than promote events), simplicity (designs should be bold and with limited text to grab people’s attention in the cluttered online space), and the final difference is the ideal sizes and dimensions for social media:

Facebook: landscape, portrait, or square

Instagram: square or portrait (1080 x 1350 pixels)

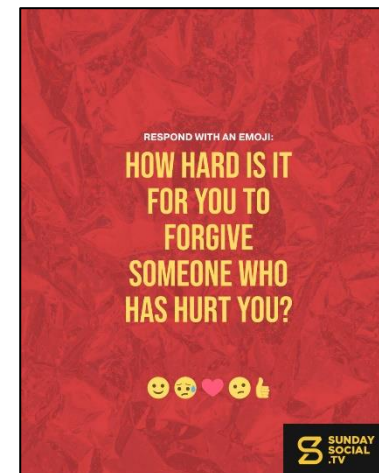

Twitter: landscape (1600 x 900 pixels)

If you could change one thing about church, what would it be?

DESIGNING A WORD DOCUMENT

Examples used in this document are not meant to be seen as “good” and “bad”, or to name and shame, but are provided as a learning opportunity. The “more effective” examples should not be considered “perfect” – and we must remember art is subjective!

If it's the front cover of a document or pdf, you may find it easier to design this as a separate image, follow the guidance for posters, and then just insert the image at the start of your document. It can be challenging to design a good front cover within Microsoft Word itself, as it is not meant for graphic design.

If you are looking to format text of a document to be more appealing, here are some tips: add space, break up blocks of text, choose fonts carefully, align the text, add some colour, use headings to draw the eye, insert some images or shapes, add a background.

DESIGNING A WORSHIP POWERPOINT

Examples used in this document are not meant to be seen as “good” and “bad”, or to name and shame, but are provided as a learning opportunity. The “more effective” examples should not be considered “perfect” – and we must remember art is subjective!

Here are some tips for creating PowerPoints for hymn lyrics in church:

- Choose a lyric font that’s easy to read
- Choose a text size that is legible from every spot in your church
- Split hymns into separate lines of lyrics (ideally 2 lines per slide, not a whole verse)
- Avoid some lines of text being significantly larger than others. While still maintaining musical phrasing, keep the shape of your lines similar
- Lyrics do not require full stops like traditional writing. Allow line breaks to substitute for punctuation
- Remove unnecessary Ad Lib musical references and interjections (Oh, Whoa, etc.)
- Leave space around the edge of your slide
- Add a drop shadow to your text for increased visibility
- Use motion backgrounds to create a dynamic visual experience

DESIGNING CHURCH NOTICE SHEETS

Examples used in this document are not meant to be seen as “good” and “bad”, or to name and shame, but are provided as a learning opportunity. The “more effective” examples should not be considered “perfect” – and we must remember art is subjective!

Simple designs can be more effective than fussy, complicated layouts. Make sure that things are grouped together under larger headings to make things easier to find. Keep all font sizes to 12 point or above, with a larger size for headings. Stick to one standard font. Avoid clip art or wordart. Not having adequate contrast can make it difficult for people with limited vision to read. If you want to highlight a section of text, create a box around it or use a different colour background. Avoid underlining, as this can be confusing. Instead, use bold or slightly larger text. Maybe include some colour or images? Follow the other guidance provided in this document.
